SOLEIL SECURITIES ADDS RESEARCH ANALYSTS

New York – October 28, 2008 – Soleil Securities Corporation, a provider of value-added, independent equity research and brokerage services, announced today that Nikolay Tishchenko and his research firm, Analytical Investments, LLC, and Christina Woo and her research firm, StreetScape Research have joined the Soleil platform.

Mr. Tishchenko has been covering the semiconductor industry for over 10 years. Prior to forming Analytical Investments in 2008, he held senior research analyst positions at Global Crown Capital, Fulcrum Global Partners and ABN Amro. Before becoming an equity research analyst, Mr. Tishchenko worked as a physicist at the Physics and Space Technology Division of Lawrence Livermore National Laboratory. During his tenure, he focused on the development of plasma based semiconductor manufacturing technologies for leading semiconductor equipment vendors.

Mr. Tishchenko earned a PhD in Theoretical Physics from the Institute of Atomic Energy and was awarded an MS in Theoretical Physics from the Moscow Institute of Physics and Engineering.

Prior to founding StreetScape Research, Ms. Woo was a Vice President at Morgan Stanley, covering car rental, equipment rental, and small cap staffing companies. She previously worked as an Associate for Banc of America Securities on the gaming and lodging and business services teams. Before starting her equity research career, Ms. Woo was a product manager for a software start-up and a strategy consultant at The Boston Consulting Group and Bain & Company, Inc. She earned her BA degree with highest honors from UC Berkeley and her MBA degree from Harvard Business School.

“Soleil is pleased to welcome both Nikolay and Christina to our platform,” said Terry Gardner, President of Soleil. “They are both highly regarded analysts in their fields and known for their thoughtful and insightful analysis.” Mr. Gardner added, “The addition of such high quality analysts further demonstrates Soleil’s commitment to providing our clients with investable ideas that generate alpha for their portfolios.”
